For the purpose of voting/elections, Richmond is divided into nine geo-demographic Richmond Voter Districts. Richmond Voter Districts are used to elect nine Richmond residents to serve as members of Richmond City Council; nine to serve on the Richmond City Public Schools Board of Trustees (which is a state function/entity that is separate from city government); and, a Mayor (“at-large”), who must receive a majority of votes in five of the nine Richmond Voter Districts.

The Richmond Voter Districts, contained herein, were most recently created through the Richmond City Council 2011 Richmond Decennial Voter District Redistricting Project and Council Ord. # 2011-185 (As Amended) on Nov. 28, 2011, in response to the 2010 U.S. Census, and as is required every ten years to reflect population shifts and to help ensure fair representation. Official approval to use the Richmond Voter Districts was provided via United States of America Department of Justice preclearance, which was officially received by Richmond on March 9, 2012.

In 2005 Richmond residents began implementation of a new Council-Mayor form of government in which powers of the “City” are vested in Richmond City Council, as per the Richmond City Charter, and a separately elected Mayor provides oversight, through a Chief Administrative Officer (selected by a Mayor but approved by Richmond City Council), of the day-to-day administration of “City” government departments.

Richmond City Council is the official governing body of Richmond, Virginia in the United States of America and represents residents in creating and amending local laws; providing government policy and oversight; levying local taxes; and, establishing an annual Richmond Government Budget.
